Films targeted people with dementia

Maria Benedikte Michelsen
Betina Melgaard
and Jane Nørgaard Jensen

Occupational therapist students
VIA University College
Campus Holstebro, Denmark
Outline

• Introduction of the project
• Dementia film project
• Method
• Results
• Occupational therapy and dementia
• Conclusion
• The final project
Introduction

• Purpose of the film

• Participants

• Our contribution
Dementia Film project

- Expert group recommendations
- Film production phase
- Evaluation of outcome
- Release

Our contribution to the project
Method

- Preliminary study
- Purpose
- Interview method
Results

- The use of television is reduced as deteriorating symptoms of dementia grow worse.

- Apparently there is a need for films targeted at people with dementia.
Occupational therapy and dementia

• Activity and participation

• Reminiscence

• Quality of life – PEOP
Conclusion

• Can these films contribute to promoting active ageing?

• Are the films a relevant tool for occupational therapists?
The final product

- DVD box set
- 40 film clips
- Dementia degree
- Content and use
References

• Television Viewing and People With Dementia Living in Long-Term Care; Kate de Medeiros et al.; Journal of Applied Gerontology; Volume 28, number 5
• Demtentia Days, 2012 Copenhagen.
• Danish Dementia Coordinator Union – annual meeting, 2012 Nyborg.
• Occupational Therapy: Performance, Participation, and Well-Being, Third Edition
  Charles H. Christiansen EdD, OTR, OT(C), FAOTA; Carolyn M. Baum PhD, OTR/L, FAOTA; Julie Bass Haugen PhD, OTR/L, FAOTA
Thank you for listening!